

Using dynamic content for learning and training

A single consolidated platform that contains all HR-related information and distributes it to other internal systems can be of great value in the delivery of learning and training solutions. Information can be more easily and quickly updated and checked for accuracy - streamlining process workflows - and training can be facilitated, for example by using video to connect HR leaders and trainers with specific groups in a private video-enabled workspace.