

Application Development

At Kelros, one of our specialisms is development and the integration of core business functions. We design, develop and deploy custom application development projects, using a tested project methodology. Our focus is on developing business applications for IBM Notes / Domino with easy integration with legacy systems.

Kelros development services specialises in high-value, high-impact solutions that deliver significant business results. Our philosophy is that the client, not technology, must drive every solution.

With a clear understanding of your business strategy and goals, our development services can assist you in critical areas such as knowledge management and workflow, including high level programming to integrate your back office systems.

We will help you to match the technologies of IBM Notes Domino with your vision by creating a planned and progressive strategy that enables you to achieve your workflow and content management objectives.

Having developed the solution, we will formulate the system and process requirements. This allows us to develop specifications for functional and technical requirements providing a baseline for systems development.

Our development services include:

- Enhancements to Kelros off the shelf applications
- Development of new workflow solutions to replace paper-based procedures
- Bespoke development to existing third party IBM Domino applications
- Upgrading of R5.x, R6.x, R7.x and ND8.x applications to a ND9 platform for the client, web browser or mobile device (using XPages)
- Conversion of existing Access, SQL and Excel spread sheets into a Domino workflow environment

Only experienced and permanent members of the Kelros team provide Kelros development services. We do not use contractors for any of our services, to ensure consistency and continuity in standards and quality of service for our clients.
